AKE Limited / Integrated Risk Solutions “DID RESPOND TO CONTACT”

AKE Limited was founded by Andrew Kain in 1991, to provide security and political risk management to businesses, NGOs and the media. The company provides a wide and integrated range of services, intelligence, training, products and technology. Much of our equipment and technology is exclusive to us and the result of extensive research, innovation and development. Our security risk specialists are ex-Special Forces and are experienced in hazardous and hostile environments throughout the world.

AKE's strength and creativity originates from the considerable skills and experience of our staff. We come from many international professional backgrounds, including medicine, information technology, marketing, travel, law enforcement, editorial, graphic design, banking, academia, and, of course, the Special Forces.

AKE is committed to its staff and their professional development, and in return, their dedication and loyalty have carried the company to greater achievement.

Defence Systems Limited

Defence Systems Limited was one of the earliest PMCs, formed in 1981 by a group of ex-SAS officials riding the swell brought on by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's yardsale of Britain's defense industry to cold war warriors of worth. DSL was initially started with private financial support from London bankers, and possibly some Middle East investors. Over the next fifteen years they established a reputation in the security industry and a small fortune, before selling all to Armor Holdings, Inc. in 1997 for $26 million [3] (<http://www.ipisresearch.be/ipis.txt/txt004/004contracting.pdf>).

What was DSL became ArmorGroup, a one stop shop spot for a variety of products pertaining to defense and riot situations. They then reached out to old foes and brought on ex-KGB commandos when they acquired the Alpha Firm. [4]

DTS Security LLC

DTS was in the news in April because three of its employees were kidnapped in April. DTS is apparently based in Nevada but not much is known about it because it is a limited liability company, meaning there are minimal disclosure requirements. According to a news report, Nevada state records on DTS Security LLC show that its incorporation papers were filed March 11. The resident agent for DTS has another name, Headquarters Company, which has an address next to the Douglas County sheriff's substation at Stateline, Nevada on Lake Tahoe's south shore.

We, at DTS, have been overtaxed with inquiries regarding the precarious situation of the four Italian Nationals being held captive in Iraq. Unfortunately, we are not able to provide any details regarding the men. The men being held hostages are not DTS personnel. DTS has no operations that are active in Iraq or its surrounding neighbors.

EOD Technology Inc. "DID RESPOND TO CONTACT"

Explosive Ordnance Disposal Technology Inc. is an environmental services company specializing in the location, identification and disposal of unexploded ordnance and munitions. Since its founding in 1987, the company has maintained a continuous contract relationship with the Defense Department and has completed more than 500 projects in 46 states and five foreign countries. EODT has annual sales of approximately $10 million to $15 million and a workforce of approximately 150 employees. EODT claims on its Web site to have never had an ordnance-related safety accident.

The company's earliest assignments involved escorting environmental scientists onto former military sites where unexploded ordnance posed a danger. Business picked up for companies like EODT in the 1990s with the closure of several U.S. military bases.

The company performs the bulk of its work as a prime contractor, having been selected by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as the sole firm working on ordnance-explosives contracts awarded in 1997 and 2000 potentially worth $100 million and $200 million, respectively.

Iraq contracts

EODT's reconstruction activities in Iraq were not disclosed in documents the Defense Department provided to the Center for Public Integrity in response to a Freedom of Information request. Media sources and information posted on the Web sites of EODT and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, however, indicate that EODT has or had post-war business dealings in Iraq. The Pentagon was forced to back off initial statements that all known munitions sites formerly used by Iraqi forces had been secured. As of late September, military officials said that as much as 650,000 tons of ammunition remained at thousands of unsecured sites.

After the U.S. invaded Iraq in March, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers awarded contracts worth $3.45 million to Tampa, Fla.-based USA Environmental Inc. and EODT to help clear ordnance and explosives in Iraq.

Global Marine Security Systems Company

Hart, formerly Hart GMSSCO, specialises in mitigating security risk globally, across land, sea and air.

Global Marine Security Systems Company was formed in November of 2001 by the Hart Group, the merchant bank Tufton Oceanic, and the New York based Energy Transportation Group for the purposes of protecting the transportation of materials like liquified natural gas and liquified petroleum gas from terrorists and to assure ports they are bringing in a safe load [1] (<http://www.prnewswire.co.uk/cgi/news/release?id=76109>). On their webpage they describe themselves as the maritime security division of Hart GMSSCO.[2] (<http://www.gmssco.com/index.htm>)

Contracts

- Recently, in July of 2004, they received the contract to "assess the Iraqi ports for International Ship and Port Facility Security Code compliance." [3] (http://www.imo.org/InfoResource/contents.asp?doc_id=1119&topic_id=402&header=false&margin=no&id=1230&show_month=235)
- In a partnership to develop non-traditional security measures for national ports, GMSSCO has teamed up with Parsons, Boeing, ADT Fire and Security, and Iridium Satellite LLC to pursue Tom Ridge's goal of creating public/private partnerships to fight the war on terror[4] (http://www.iridium.com/corp/iri_corp-news.asp?newsid=75). In the US Department of Homeland Security's Operation Safe Commerce program, this team has been assembled to create a "highly sophisticated and multi-layered system that analyzes intelligence, detects terrorists threats [and] protects critical infrastructure." [5] (http://www.boeing.com/ids/homeland_security/ourCapabilities2.htm)

- They have entered into a partnership with RINA Industry to produce a package for clients that meet the new regulations set by the International Maritime Organization. [6] (<http://www.rina.it/eng/security/security.asp>)

Neareast Security “DID NOT RESPOND TO CONTACT”

Description of services: Involved in witness protection for the Ministry of Justice on behalf of the Iraqi Provisional Authority. Neareast Security Services (NESS) is a local Iraqi company specializing in private and contracted security services, owned and operated by Iraqis. We have a number of locations in Baghdad, two of which serve as recruiting centers and administrative facilities. Our Command Center is in Baghdad, but we have regional headquarters throughout the country. Our company maintains a high level of compliance in a difficult and dangerous time. For 20 years NESS was the only private security company in Iraq. In the early eighties, when Iraq did not have provisions for private security, we took the lead in providing secure logistical support to archaeological expeditions and oil projects in remote sites around the country.

We provide a wide range of services including:

- Facility protection
- Close protection
- IT security
- Crisis management and response
- Pre-employment screening
- Force protection
- Surveillance and counter-surveillance
- Political and security risk analysis
- Project security management

Spartacus Security – “Las Vegas”

Spartacus has the resources, the experience and the knowledge to conduct a thorough security evaluation of a venue, event, ceremony and/ or the general practices of a high profile organization. We are a licensed security company and a licensed private investigative agency.

Our training is based on the counter-terrorism techniques and approaches that have been tried and tested by the SAS for over 25 years. Dealing with terrorism requires a paradigm that typical security companies are ill equipped to handle. It is not enough to be familiar with the latest and greatest technology. The person planning the security for a client has to be familiar with the various terrorist organizations, their methodology, their motivation and be able to anticipate their actions.
